PRESIDENT'S PREAMBLE

As many of you probably already know, we just had our annual Maryland Token & Medal Society Swap Meet on 12 September 1998. As usual it was a fun gathering. I believe everyone who came had a great time trading, buying, selling, and talking about our hobby interests. There were also ample, tasty refreshments thanks to Dot and Mill Hajek. We had a good crowd that numbered about 25 folks. There should have been more since one of the most frequently voiced complaints from members is that we do not get enough opportunity to trade during our regular meetings. One thought for consideration is that maybe we should have two Swap Meets a year. Another question that has come up is Sunday meetings versus Saturday meetings. Most of our meetings are held on Saturday. In many cases this is required if we meet at some historical society or the like since they are not open on Sunday. We could however hold Sunday meetings at the Convention Center when we have shows. What do you think? Please let me or one of your officers know. By the way, if any of you saw the article in the recent Numismatic News about the upcoming (Nov 13-15) Suburban Baltimore & Washington Show which says MD TAMS is meeting on Sunday, this is NOT CORRECT. We will meet on Saturday 14 November at 1100.

Speaking of Sunday meetings, our NEXT MEETING will be held in conjunction with the 11 October 1998 BANC Coin Show at the Holiday Inn on Cromwell Bridge Road. The meeting is 11:30 to 1PM. MSNA is also having their annual educational seminar there at 1:30 to 3PM. Maryland TAMS is scheduled to work at the BANC show from 2 to 4PM. We need workers to help with registration, the raffle, door prizes, etc. Please try to get to the show, the MD TAMS meeting, and work a while that afternoon. We want to support BANC and make this a strong show. MD TAMS directly benefits as one of the three BANC clubs. See you there! Bring some items for "show & tell" and the auction.

Just a quick note about some confusion that may have resulted from our recent mailing. One of the enclosures was a notice on our Journal advertising campaign that had the names and address of the member in the header of the letter. This was the only item in that mailing that was pre-addressed. In my hurry to send out these notices, I randomly packaged the information, completely forgetting that the ad letter was pre-addressed. Whose letter did you get? Probably not your own! There was even more confusion about the address label we used to send the mailing. Many of you thought that we were saying that your dues had expired or were not up to date because the label read "Expired :". Actually, only those with an actual date after the word expired had delinquent dues. The rest of you are in good shape. Any questions, check with our Treasurer, Bob Ruby. We will try to get a fix to the label confusion before the next mailing. Sorry for any inconvenience caused by either situation.

President, MD TAMS

FROM YOUR EDITOR

Will Mumford

It's time for me to sound my horn again. Our backlog of articles is down to just about zero...I've got some stuff in mind and you may just force me to dig my claws in and put it in print. As you can see from this issue, Millard Hajek has born the brunt of the pages...thank goodness for Millard...what would we do without his prolific inputs. So, what I am really saying is PLEASE take some time out of your busy life and rap something off for your Journal. Send it to me anyway you can, but if you can set it up so I can just throw it into the Journal without copying it over...sure helps me if you do. If you type it please leave at least one inch margins as we may run into copy problems otherwise.

Millard really had me going on his Antique Shopping article...so you can see even a good dream can make a good article. Try it out...share something with other members...they will enjoy it as much as you will...

Just a note on my condition, as many of you have asked...so far all is well, I seem to be holding my own and feeling quite well. I'm even putting on weight much to the surprise of my oncologist. So I am enjoying life to its fullest at the moment as with this stuff you never know! If you are into praying I'd appreciate a word or two...you got to take advantage of all in the realm of possibilities...Thanks!!

The swap meet was great...all that attended had a great time. Too bad more of you couldn't be there as lots of deals were made...Good old Jim Boswell got me some new info (and tokens) on pickers' checks which is already in my listings. Note also my comments under "Checken fer Pickers" and you'll see that my book on Anne Arundel Pickers' Checks is just about ready for the publisher. Its only been about 15 years....!!! Like life, you just keep on plugging!

My very best to you all and thanks for your great support...

Will

MILITARY TOKENS OF THE UNITED STATES
VOLUME 2 (OVERSEAS ISSUES)
By Paul A. Cunningham

A book review by Curtis H. Judge

Paul Cunningham has just released the second volume in his military token listing effort. As with the previous volume this foreign listing is first quality in every respect. It catalogs all tokens assigned to 527 overseas locations, and to U.S. Ships. The individual tokens are presented by country of use in alphabetical order. The time period covered starts with the Spanish-American Civil war and ends with the Southeast Asia Vietnam War.

The volume is presented in the 8 1/2" X 11" format, and is hardbound with over 460 pages of information. Paper quality is recycled heavy bond with matte finish that will withstand a large amount of repeated use. Photographs of tokens are plentiful throughout, with at least one example of every major variety usually presented. Photos are actual size or larger and usually very clear allowing easy use by the collector. Other background historical data, maps and photographs are also included covering quite a few of the installations.

The user will find a new format exhaustive token locator index. The index used in volume I supplied the author with a large amount of comment from the collecting fraternity. Many of the comments on change were incorporated in the new index. The following example illustrates the ease of use. If the legend on a token read 19th Infantry, 2nd Division, Airhouse, the token would be indexed under all three listings. The new Index includes all tokens listed for U.S. volume #1 and volume #2 Overseas tokens!

The individual listings of the 6169 tokens are comprehensive with each being assigned a unique catalog number in the system established with volume #1. Country and then the individual installation organize the listings. The previous Curto listing is also included for ease of cross-reference. Complete obverse and reverse inscriptions are listed, as is size, metallic composition, cutouts or other devices and pictorial information. When known the mintage of a piece is given.

The author provides a current valuation for each token listed in dollars. These valuations were arrived at by study of many major collections, with only one known substantial collection not being referenced. Exhaustive auction records and many other sources were also used in arriving at a relative value for each listing. The usual cautions on hoards and new finds are given.

The reviewer feels that every serious collector of military tokens will need this volume for reference along with the previously issued volume #1. These two volumes are first class in every respect and are the standard by which the reviewer judges other works.

Copies are shipped shrink wrapped in heavy cardboard containers. Cost is $49.95 plus $4.00 shipping and packaging.

ANTIQUE SHOPPING – A VENTURE TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE

Millard W. Hajek LM #1

You just never know when or where something undiscovered will pop up. We, as collectors all realize this, and frankly, it is one of the many attractions inherent in our chase for items that sometimes fall outside the mainstream of numismatic collecting.

Tokens and medals, particularly from Maryland, along with funny money fall into that category which also happens to be my main collecting interests. Recently, I had an experience while taking a few days vacation in Amish country around Lancaster, Pennsylvania while visiting some of the many antique shops. The rainy weather we were experiencing put a damper on our sight-seeing activities but it allowed us some extra time to explore these antique shops.

The episode started when we walked into one of those all purpose antique malls. It was a huge store with various little cubicles offering all kinds of different collectibles for sale. Most of the spaces were unattended but, as luck would have it, the one that flagged our interest happened to have a proprietor there that day. The vendor had a mish-mash of items along with a display case full of coins, tokens and small collectibles and a big plastic basket full of coins and tokens. He gladly opened his display case for me and I was on my way to paradise. Surprisingly, I found a couple Maryland tokens that I purchased even though I already had them in my collection. Since they were in pretty good condition, I pulled them out to use as traders. In the case, I found a Dorman Liberty Head store card, A Concordia 50 value and a Woolman mirror from Hagerstown. Also tucked under a pile of exonumia in the corner of the case were two tokens that sent my heart pounding. I immediately recognized the Bowman Civil War token featuring a telescope from Hagerstown and a Koehler personal store card with a distinctive die crack across the face of the Liberty Head. If my quick observation was correct, the only other specimen that is know to exist for the Koehler store card is in the collection of the American Numismatic Society. Wow! I could hardly contain my excitement as I casually put them on my pile along with the other items I had selected.

As I started to fish through the plastic basket I engaged in some conversation with the proprietor and he happened to tell me that he purchased most of the tokens and coins from an estate sale somewhere near Hagerstown. I pulled out about a dozen initial type "picker checks" for some research later along with three scudsy and smooth large cents. The dates were pretty obscure with the naked eye but I hesitated to pull out my glass as to not tip my hand that I might have found a winner.

Exhausting my search, I casually ask him if he had any paper related items like play money, bill heads, etc. He reached behind the counter and pulled down a shoe box from the top shelf. As I searched through the box which was practically full I discovered some Monoply game play money with the copyright date of 1935 and some Barbie game play money which started my heart pounding again. There were plenty of other items there too that would require some serious research and would fit perfectly into my play money collection. Before I could finish my search he volunteered to sell me the whole box for $25 since he's had it for quite some time and wanted to get his money out of it. Again my heart started to pound like a hammer as I tried to rein in my excitement as I accepted his offer.

I started to get concerned about the total of my purchases since we had taken limited funds for our vacation. He added up my total pile of goodies which came to $250. After some deliberation, he said he would give me a good discount since he was thinking about closing up his cubicle and moving on to some other venture. He asked me if a 20% discount was fair and I said that I thought that was a reasonable amount. My hands trembled as I pulled out the $200 and picked up my purchases.

We made a dash to the car and I couldn't contain myself any longer. I got out those three scudsy large cents to look at them under a glass. The dates were very weak but recognizable. The first two were a 1803 and a 1794 large cent. Not too bad for some cherry picking. The last cent took my breath away when the date came into focus and was a 1799 large cent. What a cherry pickers holiday for me! Pulling out the Maryland Merchant Tokens book, I attributed my tokens as the Bowman S-370-B-5 or Miller-187, the Dorman was S60–D81a which happens to be the scarcer variety (and instead of &), the Concordia was S60-C195-50 and finally the Koehler storecard as S60-K165.

Totally up my purchases quickly in my mind, I came up with at least $5,000 worth of items that cost me only $200. Not too shabby for a day of browsing the antique shops. All of sudden my heart started to pound again and I started to shake. Then the full reality started to set in and the next thing that happened was that I woke up! Amen!

A Continuing Study of Anne Arundel County Farm Tokens...

We conclude our "final" listings in this issue...although while these listings were being run in the Journal, I have added about 100 new tokens and they will be added in the publication which will soon be ready for the press. The book..."Strawberries, Peas, & Beans...trucking in old Annarandal," will be published by the Ann Arrundell County Historical Society sometime within the next six months. New checks and farmers are still being found and no doubt more will be found in the future, but I have now drawn the line and it's time to go to press! We'll leave a few blank pages so you can add new checks as they are discovered. It has been very difficult to sort the truck farm checks from the canning checks and the Eastern Shore checks. Thanks to many MDTAMS members for helping sort these checks out. More work needs to be done in this area, but we want to leave some room for future explorations. This is your last chance to make inputs or changes to these listings, so check your checks and let me know now if you have questions or additions to these listings. Thanks for your help.

I've just obtained a copy of a study made in 1921 on Child Labor on Maryland Truck Farms printed by The U.S. Department of Labor. The survey, made by Alice Channing, covers almost exclusively Anne Arundel County. The study adds substantially to the information we already have on the nature of the truck farms and the pickers who provided the seasonal labor for the harvest. There is also much information on the black farmers in the county. As a last task to the text of the book, I am busy adding some of this new information. All should be ready "to go" in a couple of weeks...whew...its been a long haul!

Now to complete the listings.....

A New Game In Town

Millard W. Hajek LM#1

A recent visit to Baltimore's Inner Harbor with the wife and grand kids for lunch turned into a pleasant surprise when I added another amusement token to my collection and enjoyed a delicious lunch. The second floor of the ESPN ZONE is a Video Arcade Mecca with all types of activities. Besides the video games, one can get in the batting cage for a few swings at the baseball, play quarterback and throw the football through the hole, play some golf or try you hand at shooting some hoops, just to name a few activities available.

You must purchase "The card" to operate any of the games. The cards are available for different amounts of points. For example a $5.00 card which is blue in color has 15 points, a $10.00 card which is black and gray in color is worth 40 points. Some games award tickets which can be redeemed for prizes while others are just games of skill. Some games use tokens and these can be retrieved from a change machine at 6 tokens for 6 points off of "The card".

If you have children or grand children who are into video games , I suggest you give the ESPN ZONE a try. Illustrated below are examples of my day at the ESPN ZONE.

ESPN ZONE
• Card is non-refundable and has no cash value
• Card is non-transferable

August 12, 1998.

The Maryland Token And Medal Society has initiated a campaign to encourage advertising in its Maryland TAMS Journal to help offset the rising costs of publication.

Current advertising rates for our Maryland TAMS Journal are as follows:

SIZE	ONE ISSUE	FOUR ISSUES
1 page	$16.00	$56.00
1/2 page	$12.00	$42.00
1/4 page	$8.00	$28.00
1/8 page	$4.00	$14.00

The deadline for advertising copy is as follows:

ISSUE	DEADLINE	ISSUE DATE
Spring	February 15th	March 21st
Summer	May 15th	June 21st
Fall	August 15th	September 21st
Winter	November 15th	December 21st

To help Maryland TAMS get started on this campaign, we are offering prospective advertisers a special rate of $12.00 in 4 issues of the Maryland TAMS Journal by simply using your business card or an ad of equivalent size (3 1/2" X 2").This is $2 less than the current rate for a 1/8 page ad. Unless you specify otherwise, the ad will start in the first issue of the Journal after receipt of your payment. Please remit your payment along with your business card or your advertising copy to Maryland TAMS, C/O Advertising, P.O. Box 3273, Baltimore, MD 21228-0273 Please make check payable to the Maryland Token And Medal Society.

Thank you for your kind consideration in this advertising campaign and for your continued support of Maryland TAMS.

Respectfully,
